DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on October 5, 2005 has been entered.

2. Claims 1-42 were cancelled by the amendment filed with the RCE. Claims 43-83 are newly added.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 43-83 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Applicant's arguments, see pages 11-16, with respect to the newly added claims 43-83 have been fully considered and are persuasive. The closest prior art, Murphy et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,640,452) in view of Schipper et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,577,122) does not disclose combining a relative location parameter (shape parameter based on interpretation) and a location identity attribute to form an encryption key which is used to encrypt digital information, and to decrypt the digital information using a decryption key which is formed by using the current location and the relative location parameter (shape parameter). Therefore, the prior art of record does not teach the subject matter of the pending claims. However, the claims are still subject to rejections under 35 USC 112 1st paragraph and 2nd paragraph, as well as a provisional nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection over claims 55-91 of copending Application No. 09/699,832 as described below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

5. Claims 43-83 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The specification does not contain the term "relative location parameter" which is present in the independent claims. There is no mention of this parameter, and it is unclear what is meant by the parameter by the disclosure of the specification.

Art Unit: 2131

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

6. Claims 43-83 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The term "relative location parameter" is not defined in the specification, making it unclear what is meant by this term. For purposes of examination and the following double patenting rejection, the "relative location parameter" is interpreted as the shape parameter described in the specification.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

7. Claims 43-83 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 55-91 of copending Application No. 09/699,832. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because based on the interpretation of "relative location parameter" as a "shape parameter," the claims perform the same function of generating an encryption key by using a location and another parameter. The area parameter and the relative location parameter both are described as specifying a common value without identifying a location of a specific geographic location. Based on this description, it is asserted that the method of controlling access to the digital information by generating an encryption and a decryption key by using a location and shape (area) parameter. Both applications provide for sending the encrypted digital information along with a relative location parameter (area parameter). Therefore, it is asserted that the inventions are not patentably distinct because the present invention is anticipated by 09/699,832 with the interpretation of the "relative location parameter" as a "shape parameter."

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.
